

A Walk Around UIC

Welcome to UIC! We invite you to spend some time getting to know our campus, located just a mile from Chicago's Loop. The stops highlighted below are all within walking distance on UIC's East Side, home to the majority of undergraduate classes. A map is on the back. Enjoy your visit!

- A hub of student life, Student Center East is home to computer labs, lounges, a bowling alley, a barber shop, the UIC Bookstore, and a multitude of dining options. Located on the historic Netsch campus, SCE is one of many modernist buildings designed by architect Walter Netsch in the 1960s. Look around and see if you can spot others.
- Take a look inside Lecture Center A. Classrooms here typically serve students enrolled in "gen ed" courses. Between classes, students study or relax in the large Oasis at the south end of the building.
- Richard J. Daley Library houses an impressive collection of books, images, maps, journals, manuscripts, and more. In the lobby, two beautiful Oases display art from Special Collections. A high-tech Learning Commons is scheduled for completion in May 2011.
- Newly renovated Lincoln, Grant (and soon Douglas) Halls represent UIC's dedication to students as well as the environment. The brightly lit classrooms and computer labs, models of green architecture, are heated and cooled by renewable energy.
- Don't miss the stunning Student Recreation Facility. This state-of-the-art fitness center offers a lazy river, rock climbing wall, 3-lane running track, group exercise studios, spin classes, massages, salsa/merengue lessons, Tae Kwon Do, and much, much more.
- Jane Addams Hull-House Museum is the symbol of UIC's commitment to serving Chicago's diverse communities. Enjoy a visit to the museum or join us on Tuesdays for "re-thinking soup," where students and community members engage in conversation about many of the urgent food issues of today. Fresh, organic soup is served.
- The UIC Skyspace, created by artist James Turrell, and the UIC Forum mark the entrance to South Campus. The Forum hosts many campus events, including the annual Student Research Forum in April of each year.
- Today almost half of all students live on campus or in surrounding neighborhoods. James Stukel Towers is one of three popular student residence halls on South Campus. Further south is Chicago's historic Maxwell Street, where street sculptures and photographs commemorate that significant era in city history.
