

The University of Chicago, The University of Illinois at Chicago and Northwestern University present

Philosophy and Religion in Ancient Greece

November 3-4, 2006

Friday, November 3

Northwestern University

Harris Hall, Room 108, 1881 Sheridan Road, Evanston

2:00 - 3:45

“Divinity, Intelligibility, and Human Understanding in Presocratic Thought”

Patricia Curd, Purdue University

Comments: Brad Inwood, University of Toronto

4:00-5:45

“Physics and Religion in Heraclitus”

Stephen Menn, McGill University

Comments: Victor Caston, University of Michigan

Saturday, November 4

morning session at: University of Illinois at Chicago, Humanities Institute Stevenson Hall (lower level), 701 S. Morgan

9:00-10:45

“Platonic Immortality”

David Sedley, Christ's College, Cambridge University

Comments: Sean Kelsey, UCLA

11:00-12:45

“Tale, Theology, and Teleology in the Phaedo”

Gabor Betegh, Central European University, Budapest

Comments: Tad Brennan, Northwestern University

afternoon session at: University of Chicago

Classics 10, 1010 E. 59th Street

2:00-3:45

“Sophoclean Conflicts: Between Religion and Philosophy”

Alasdair MacIntyre, University of Notre Dame

Comments: Jonathan Lear, University of Chicago

4:00- 5:45

“Descent and Reminiscence in the Timaeus-Critias”

Sarah Broadie, University of St. Andrew's

Comments: Barbara Sattler, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

5:45-6:15

Closing Remarks: Martha Nussbaum, University of Chicago